I have been in love with the arts my entire life. I can't remember a time when I wasn't doing something creative. I spent a majority of my childhood moving between Ohio and Florida, and I enjoyed my dance classes and school music programs. Playing the clarinet gave me a much-needed outlet and satisfied my desire to perform. I majored in clarinet performance and became an elementary school music teacher. I had been teaching about 5 years when I decided to pursue acting. I was watching a play, and all I could think about was how badly I wanted to be on that stage. I found my way to Karen Storms' studio in the summer of 2008 and immediately felt at home. I still feel that way every time I step on a set or a stage. I look forward to each and every opportunity to play a new character and do what I love.
