Heather Felder was born and raised in Missouri. Originally from St. Louis, she moved to Kansas City and began lessons at Music/Arts Institute under Millicent Daugherty, Julie Cato, and several others. Throughout her early years, she competed and placed in many state vocal competitions. In 2003, Heather was named 1st runner up in Talent and 2003's Miss Missouri National Teen-Ager. She used her title to help educate elementary children on how to achieve their dreams.

Heather went on to attend Missouri State University and received her Bachelor of Fine Arts in Musical Theatre. While attending MSU, she had many experiences working with or through many of today's prominent professionals, including: vocal lessons with Terry McCombs, workshops with Dave Clemmons and Craig Carnelia, and choreography for A Chorus Line with Mitzi Hamilton. After graduating in 2007, Heather has since worked at Wild Adventures, under the direction of Aurelio Padron, in the KC area, and also at the Wohlfahrt Haus Dinner Theatre where she recently played Brenda in Smokey Joe's Cafe.
